JEFFREY G. LANDIN NAMED WISCONSIN PAPER COUNCIL PRESIDENT

NEENAH – Jeff Landin has been named President of the Wisconsin Paper Council, effective June 18, 2007. Landin succeeds Patrick Schillinger, who resigned to accept a position in the energy industry.

Landin is currently Executive Director of the Portage County Business Council in Stevens Point, a position he has held since 2004. He previously served as Director of Administration for Brown County, Chief of Staff for Waukesha County, and Government Affairs Associate for the Brown County Home Builders Association.

"We're pleased to have someone with Jeff's extensive background in association management and legislative expertise to take over as President of the Wisconsin Paper Council," said Thomas Danz, President and COO of George A. Whiting Paper Company and incoming chairman of the Wisconsin Paper Council.

"I am thrilled and honored to be the next President of the Wisconsin Paper Council," said Landin. "To lead the dedicated staff and represent one of the most important and historic industries in this state is an incredible opportunity. I look forward to working with our member companies for years to come."

Landin is a 1988 graduate from King's College in Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, where he majored in government. He also earned a master's degree in public administration from the State University of New York – Binghamton in 1990.

Landin resides in Plover, with his wife Patty, son Alex, and daughter Carson.

The Wisconsin Paper Council is the trade association that represents the pulp, paper and allied industry in the state.
